

The body binds

The body binds us to its frame
It cares for nought but simple care
Warmth and sustenance it's price
To give a playground for our mind
Its pleasures also simple to fulfil
In trust we share the shell
In hope we endeavour to be well
But time and nature have a price
There is no refund for this life